CHINA

Mr. facilitator,

The paper laid a good basis for further discussion and for the final creation of the upr by consensus. Congratulate you on your China support the creation, consider it will be helpful for the redress of the shortcomings of the chr, which is characterized by politicization, double standard selectivity.

as the GA resolution stated. Upr should be a cooperative mechanism, at the same time, upr should take into due consideration different historic, cultural religious background and different stages of development.

Upr should complement not duplicate

~~Do not support the participation of ngos, because we can not ensure the reliability and objectivity of the materials presented by ngos.~~ with the participation of NGOs.

With regard to the periodicity, support the period between review cycles should be at least 5 years, so that state can have enough time for the preparation for the review. and digest to the
Thus the council each year can review 40 states. With 3-hours meeting allocated ~~for every~~ to state, the council should spend 4 weeks every for upr exercise.

The upr should be conducted in the plenary main session, with member states be the main player of the upr in order to ensure the objectivity and impartiality of the review.

The upr should be based on information presented by states based on a standardized and sp and treaty bodys. No questionnaire to be adopted by the council duplication

The final outcome should be statement of the council including observations and by the Human Rights Council recommendations. It should be a cooperative one and adopted by consensus with the full agreement of the state under review. concerned states, during its next review, should report how it implement the outcome of the previous review.

to avoid confrontation politicization, of the work of HRE
(we are not imposing country specific resolutions at the in the upr process because)
